Queen Elizabeth Is ‘Direct Descendant Of Prophet Muhammad’ – Study

Fact checked

Queen Elizabeth is a direct descendent of Prophet Muhammad, the founder of Islam, according to a BBC News broadcast and Burke's Peerage, the genealogical guide to royal ancestry.

According to Harold Brooks-Baker of Burke's Peerage, the British royal family is descended from Mohammed through the Arab kings of Seville, who ruled an Arab caliphate in Spain after the death of Muhammad.

At its peak, the caliphate ruled over territory from the Caucasus (Eurasia) to the Iberia Peninsula (Muslim Spain, Portugal, Andorra and Gibraltar).

It was the fifth largest empire in history, governing 62 million people (29% of the world's population at the time). Muhammad's blood passed directly through this lineage to the European kings of Portugal and Castille, and through them to Queen Elizabeth, via England's 15th century King Edward IV.

After carefully tracing Queen Elizabeth's ancestry, it was determined that the British monarch is the 43rd great-granddaughter of the Prophet Muhammad.

MOSLEMS IN BUCKINGHAM PALACE

Mixed in with Queen Elizabeth's blue blood is the blood of the Moslem prophet Mohammed, according to Burke's Peerage, the geneological guide to royalty. The relation came out when Harold B. Brooks-Baker, publishing director of Burke's, wrote Prime Minister Margaret Thatcher to ask for better security for the royal family. "The royal family's direct descent from the prophet Mohammed cannot be relied upon to protect the royal family forever from Moslem terrorists," he said. Probably realizing the connection would be a surprise to many, he added, "It is little known by the British people that the blood of Mohammed flows in the veins of the queen. However, all Moslem religious leaders are proud of this fact."

Brooks-Baker said the British royal family is descended from Mohammed through the Arab kings of Seville, who once ruled Spain. By marriage, their blood passed to the European kings of Portugal and Castille, and through them to England's 15th century King Edward IV.

Is Queen Elizabeth promoting her Muslim ancestry?

BBC Arabic has begun promoting the idea that Queen Elizabeth is a direct descendant of the Prophet Muhammad. Numerous television segments broadcast on the BBC in the Muslim world have been devoted to the idea.

While the following BBC broadcast is in Arabic, the content of the segment is easily understood by the English speaking viewer:

Germany – The Protector of Radical Islam | Germany Watch

“The attacks on 9/11 – planned in Germany, executed mostly by Islamic extremists, was a symbol and outcome of the trust and continued cooperation between Germany and pan-Islamism. This trust and understanding between Islam and Germany, is part of the reason Yugoslavia was broken up in cahoots with radical Islam, shortly after Germany gained reunification itself. Destroying the final remnants of post-war treaties and geographical borders.”
